MINISTERS TO DISCUSS CHEST DRIVE SUNDAY

Churches Take Active Part in Charity Campaign

ALL CLUBS HELP

Elaborate Advertising Planned to Acquaint Every One In City With Needs of Drive

All local ministers will announce the Community Chest drive of May 27 from their pulpits Sunday morning and make a brief talk concerning the importance of supporting it liberally. This will mark the beginning of the advertising campaign which is being inaugurated and by which every person in Middlesboro will be educated to the value of the Community Chest in Middlesboro last year and the necessity of refilling the Chest this year.

Several months before the Community Chest was organized here a year ago ministers expressed their approval of the plan and, using their influence in their several congregations, they aided, in no small degree, in carrying the campaign to a successful culmination.

They offer similar support this year for they ,perhaps more than any other class, realize the value of the Community Chest which adequately provides for all necessary charity, public institutions and special work and that it operates smoothly and efficiently and elliminates multitudinous drives such were formerly staged here every month or so under the old disorganized plan.

Though a large percentage of people may be reached through church announcements, this will not be the extent of this particular kind of advertising. Executives of all local fraternities, clubs and other organizations will be asked to address their meetings briefly on the subject. Leaflets which point out a few of the advantages of the Community Chest will also be distributed at religious and other meetings during the coming week.

Beginning Monday, there will be a special speaker at the Manring theater each night who will stress a particular phase of the Community Chest work. There will also be attractive screen slides there nightly advertising the drive of may 27. Several hundred people will be reached in this way.

RESTORATION LEE'S OLD HOME URGED

Michigan Congressman Would Honor Leader of Confederate Army

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Restoration of the old home of Robert E. Lee, leader of the southern forces during the Civil war, is proposed in a resolution introduced in the house of representatives by Representative Louis Cramton, republican, of Michigan.

"The era of internecine strife among the estates has yielded to one of better understanding and common loyalty," Cramton said. "The hope of a reunited country has been consummated. Honor is now accorded Robert E. Lee as one of the great military leaders of history, and it is therefore fitting that the Lee mansio nin the Arlington National cemetery be restored to the condition in which it existed immediately after the Civil war."

Under the resolution the war department would be authorized to procure, if possible, articles of furniture and equipment which were in the mansion and in use by its occupants.

"As the Washington home at Mount Vernon typifies for all time the Washington period in our history, so should the Lee mansion at Arlington preserve his period," said the Michigan congressman. He added that the purpose of his resolution was to emphasize the better understanding that is now accomplished by the north and south and "to pay deserved tribute to a great American."

Millionaire Bootlegger Convict Says He Has Check Records of Millions in Liquor Transactions

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The courts will be asked by the Senate Daugherty committee to help it secure the cancelled checks of George Remus of Ohio, which he testified will tend to verify his story of large money payments to the late Jess Smith, companion of former Attorney General Daugherty, for "protection."

After a conference with Attorney General Stone, the committee held an executive session to arrange legal proceedings. Chairman Brookhart said court action was considered necessary because Remus is serving a term in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Remus testified yesterday that he had check records of millions of dollars in liquor transactions that would throw additional light on his assertion that he had paid Smith between $250,000 and $300,000. He is still under guard here and desires to go to Cincinnati himself to get the papers.

TY COBB MAY CLOSE CAREER

Twentieth Season Probable Last Regular One for Veteran Ball Player

DETROIT, May 16.—While no definite announcement has been made, it is understood that this year will be Cobb's last season as a regular player.

Cobb came to the Detroit club in 1907. At the close of this season he will have finished his twentieth season as one of the shining lights of the American League.

Last season Cobb slowed up considerable. It was generally noticeable. Cobb, himself, admitted that he no longer was a speed merchant on the paths. He lost at least 20 hits last year he would have easily beaten out 10 years ago.

Cobb is proud of his great record, as well he should be. He frankly admits that he never wants his play to slip so much that the crowd starts to boo him. He recalls that Lajoie and Wagner suffered such a fate in the final stages of their big league career.

"Nothing like that for me," says Cobb. "When I see that I am a has-been ,it's a seat on the bench for me."

Cobb says the thought of permanently retiring is still some years distant, but instead of a regular he will probably play utility roles at the close of 1924.

House Passes Bonus Bill Over Veto of President

SOUTHERN ROADS LIFT DIVIDENDS

A. C. L. and L. and N. Show Heavy Earnings, Good Profits

NEW YORK, May 17.—Increased dividends have been declared by directors of two important southern railroads—the Atlantic Coast Line and the Louisville & Nashville, which it controls—permitting stockholders to share in their steadily expanding earnings.

An extra dividend of one per cent was voted on Atlantic Coast Line common stock in addition to the regular semi-annual payments of 3½ per cent. while capital stock of the Louisville & Nashville was placed on a $6 annual basis, as compared with $5 previously paid. Atlantic Coast Line directors specified that the extra dividend was to be paid out of non-operating income, derived principally from returns of about $60,000,000 Louisville & Nashville stock. The increase in the latter's dividend virtually provides for payment of the parent road's extra.

Indicated earnings in excess of 18 per cent on Atlantic Coast Line's common stock last year were among the best of the first-class roads. At the same time Louisville & Nashville reported the largest earnings in its history equal to more than 10 per cent on its capital stock which was increased during the year from $72,000,000 to an authorized total of $125,000,000 by declaration o fa 62½ per cent stock dividend.

Vote of 313 to 77 Is More Than Needed Two-Thirds

UP TO SENATE

Close Vote Expected There With Some Adhering to Decision of Coolidge, Others for Bill

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The House today passed the soldiers' bonus bill over the veto of President Coolidge 313 to 77. Party lines vanished as the measure piled up a comfortable margin over the two-thirds majority required.

Enactment into law or final defeat of the bill is now up to the Senate where a close result is expected. The bill received fifty-two more votes than the required two-thirds.

Most of the Senate members were deluged with messages, in contrast to the house, and leaders were busy conducting polls.

Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, in charge of the bill in the senate, declared the necessary two-thirds majority had been untouched. There were intimations from other proponents that they expected a close vote, with the measure receiving a possible majority of two.

While administration [illegible] characterized the president's message as effective, the situation, they said, had been fairly well crystallized for some time in view of the expected veto. There was little evidence of a concerted movement among opponents of the bill in the senate to line up support for the presidential action.

RICH WHO DODGE THE LAWS

In China they still have an ancient law by which, when a bank fails, the banker is beheaded. This may seem barbarous to some Americans. But only one bank has failed in China in over 400 years.

Strict enforcement of the law, regardless of the wealth and influence of the lawbreaker, always has a tendency to prevent crime. And it makes the government more substantial and enduring, for a government is built on quicksands when the people do not have confidence in the integrity and impartial justice of courts.

We have in mind, in particular, the excellent public service performed by Judge Jesse D. Wall of Kansas in sentencing the convicted president of a defunct bank to 45 years in prison and $45,000 fine. This was the absolute limit possible under the law.

A few more judges like Wall would do more to strengthen our democracy and nip Bolshevism in the bud than a million years of flag waving, pious oratory and two-faced platitudes.

There can be no firm public confidence in the courts when the rich, by reason of being able to hire crafty lawyers who find loopholes in the law and methods of delay, have the advantage over defendants whose purse cannot afford such costly but effective dodging.

The courts themselves usually are theoretically impartial as to the wealth or poverty of defendants.

So are the laws.

The trouble is, the laws are made by politicians recruited mainly among lawyers. And most of these incline to frame a law so there will be loopholes. Thus assuring plenty of business.

A BANKRUPT'S REVENGE

Even though they might not care to give it their indorsement as a regular practice, honest folk will not be wanting in sympathy for the annual course taken by a Hagerstown (Md.) meat dealer to explain his insolvency. Smarting under the sting of having been forced into bankruptcy, the man posted on his front door a list of persons who he declared owed him money and stated that if they had paid their debts he would have been able to pay his. "These people forced me into bankruptcy," said the sign over the names.

In the list, says the correspondent reporting the affair, were the names of some of the prominent housewives of Hagerstown. They were naturally but not righteously indignant, and about 20 of the women stormed the shop and tore the sign down.

Of course it was humiliating to them to have their names exposed to the public gaze in this unpleasant way; yet, if the butcher told the truth—as he probably did—their shame was not undeserved. The bankrupt suffered worse than humiliation; he lost his business as a result of extending credit to persons who failed to meet their obligations; and he can hardly be blamed for wanting to share his humiliation with those responsible for it.

The incident is illuminating as an example of the manner in which petty defalcations in the aggregate affect business. Probably none of the butcher's debtors owed him more than a few dollars each. Yet in their total these bad debts ruined him, and his insolvency in turn will prove at least slightly embarrassing to his creditors. Mi-placed trust may cause annoyance to far more than those directly concerned. Happily most people pay their debts; otherwise it would be impossible to do business on a credit system, and without credit commerce would languish.

The Maryland housewives whose names were made public as defaulters are angry now; but no doubt down in their hearts they are also a little remorseful. They have been taught what the consequence of not paying even small debts may be. If they are more conscientious in meeting their obligations promptly the butcher's revenge will have served a good purpose.

THE OPEN FORUM

Cows Are Mistreated

Editor Daily News:—Residents of the South Side are the victims of a custom which has become a nuisance. Parties have been picketing their cows on vacant lots leaving no visible food, water or salt for their use. Often standing mired to their knees in mud, the cows make both night and day hideous with their ceaseless bawling. This nuisance should be abated. The law against cruelty to animals should be applied to cruelty to cows and also to the victims whose slumbers are broken by their noise.

A VICTIM.

Lawyers Take Oath They Never Fought a Duel

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, May 16.—Attorneys at law, sworn in by clerk of the Court of Appeals John T. Goodman several times a week, take oath in the appellate chamber that they have never fought a duel or acted as second in carrying a challenge.

The oath administered them is:

"You do solemnly swear that you will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and be faithful and true to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, as long as you remain a citizen thereof.

"And that you will execute to the best of your ability, the office of Attorney at Law, according to law.

"And you do further solemnly swear, that since the adoption of the present constitution, you, being a citizen of this state, have not fought a duel with deadly weapons within this state or out of it. Nor have you sent a challenge, nor aided any one thus offending. So Help You God.

"You do solmenly swear that you will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and you will faithfully and impartially discharge all the duties incumbent upon you as judge, according to the best of your abilities."

And so is testified before the judges of the Commonwealth's highest court, before Chief Justice Flem D. Sampson, that the lawyer newly admitted to practice has fought no duel; at the same time showing that in Kentucky all reference to the past is not limited to the movies.

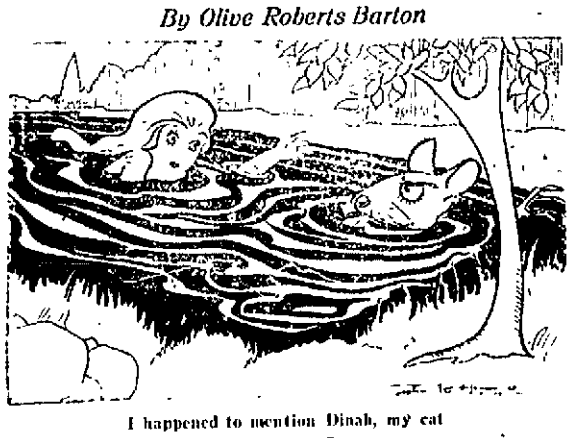
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton



I happened to mention Dinah, my cat

Nancy and Nick and Mister Muggs were talking to Alice, who had had such wonderful adventures in a place called Wonderland.

"Oh, yes," said Alice, "the rabbit was a dear, but the mouse was always getting offended. I started it in the first place by crying a whole lake of tears and nearly drowning the poor thing; then while we were both swimming about, I happened to mention Dinah, my cat, who is such a good mouser. Next I spoke of the terrier next door, and the first thing I knew he swam away in a great rage. But he came back and after that, when I begged his pardon, we ran a race to dry ourselves after our wetting."

"Who else did you see?" asked Nancy.

"Oh, let me see," said Alice. "I went to a tea-party while I was there. A queer tea-party it was! The Mad Hatter and the March Hare and the Dormouse were having it."

"That was a queer party!" remarked Nancy.

"Wasn't it, though! It was even queerer than it sounds, for their conversation was most unusual," said Alice. "They asked riddles without any answers, and the Dormouse slept all the time. They really didn't invite me, but the table was so long and the three of them took up so little room, I invited myself. As they used up the clean dishes, they kept moving along to new places and I had a hard time talking to them at all."

"What did they say?" asked Nick, who was more interested in the March Hare and the Dormouse and the Mad Hatter than he was in Alice.

"It was all very silly," said Alice. "The Mad Hatter complained that his watch was two days slow because he had oiled it with butter. And the March Hare replied that he couldn't understand that at all as it was such good butter. And then the Hatter said that no doubt crumbs had got in as the Hare had put the butter in with the bread-knife."

"Why was his watch two days slow, instead of two minutes slow?" asked Nick curiously.

"Because it stays one year so long in Wonderland," said Alice, "that they tell time by days instead of minutes.

"After that the Dormouse began to sing," Alice went on.

"What did he sing?" asked Nancy, who wanted to know every word about everything.

"Let me see if I can remember. It went like this, I think:

"'Twinkle, twinkle, little bat,
'How I wonder what you're at,
Up above the world so high,
Like a tea-tray in the sky.'

"The last time he said it, the sleep Dormouse went 'twinkle, twinkle, twinkle,' so many times that he fell asleep again.

"The last I saw of them, the Hatter and the Hare were trying to put the Dormouse into the teapot," said Alice.

"Oh, dear! That was funny," said Nancy. "Do you know any more?"

"I'll tell you another part of my adventure to-morrow," said Alice, "if you like it."

DR. G. W. McDANIEL HEADS BAPTISTS

Succeeds E. Y. Mullins—Convention Protests Any Change in Prohibition Law

By Associated Press

ATLANTA, Ga., May 16.—Dr. G. W. McDaniel of Richmond, Va., was elected president of the Southern Baptist Convention at the opening session here Wednesday over Dr. Z. T. Cody of Greenville, S. C., and Dr. J. D. Mell of Athens, Ga.

The following were elected vice presidents by acclamation: Dr. C. E. Dicken, president of Ouachita University, Arkadelphia, Ark.; Dr. N. L. Pickard, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Minitra Jones, St. Joseph, Mo.; Dr. A. A. Murfee, president of the University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

H. C. Moore, Nashville; J. H. Surnett, Murfreesboro, Tenn., were re-elected secretaries; George Norton, Louisville, Ky., treasurer, and W. P. Harvey, Harrodsburg, Ky., auditor.

A laymen's mass meeting Tuesday night heard speakers condemn the modernist-fundamentalist controversy and urge entry of the United States into the League of Nations.

A resolution was adopted protesting against bills now before Congress seeking modification of the Volstead act and calling upon Congress to strengthen instead of weaken the prohibition laws.

The resolution addressed to the committee expressed hope that the body would recommend to the house a strengthening of the prohibition laws instead of a "weakening in any respect."

Joining in the chorus of seconds to the measure Congressman W. D. Upshaw for vice president of the United States, took the platform and declared:

"Not a one of 57 varieties of beer and liquor bills in the committee now will ever see the light of day."

Episcopalians Would Rebuild Jap Missions

LEXINGTON, May 17.—Plans for the Kentucky Diocese of the Episcopal Church to raise its quota in the national campaign for $2,500,000 to be used for re establishing Episcopal schools, colleges and missions in Japan, destroyed last fall by the Japanese earthquake, were made at a meeting of approximately 200 persons, representing fifteen churches of the diocese.

In Episcopal churches of Kentucky Sunday, pastors will preach sermons on the reconstruction of Episcopal educational and religious institutions, that were almost wholly destroyed in the earthquake and fire. Most of these buildings were in Tokio, it was said, altho others were distributed thru the empire.

Kentuckians Bare Heads When "My Old Kentucky Home" Sung

true Kentucklians stand with bared heads when the national anthem is played or sung in their presence, so will Kentuckians rise and stand uncovered whenever they are set atingle by the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home."

This is the suggestion to all Kentuckians everywhere of Breckinridge Jones, of St. Louis, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company, one of Kentucky's most loyal sons and at the same time a well known citizen of the Missouri metropolis. Mr. Jones for some years has made it a practice of doing this very thing wherever he goes and invariably finds other Kentuckians in any gathering who follow his example.

"The time has come to inaugurate this custom generally among Kentuckians," Mr. Jones says. "Foster's great song, written at the old Kentucky Home near Bardstown in 1852, was first published in 1854, if my information is correct. This year the seventieth anniversary coincides happily with Kentucky's 1924 Home Coming. The beginning of that event on June 16th should be the date for initiation of the custom.

Mr. Jones is a native of Boyle county and was graduated from Center College at Danville in 1875. The next year he taught school at Lawrenceburg. The following two years he studied law in the office of Hill and Alcorn at Stanford, and in 1878 moved to St. Louis. He was a member of the Missouri legislature in 1883.

On June 16 by way of compliment to Kentucky and the Kentuckians present, all bands, theater orchestras, organists, pianist and singers will be asked to play "My Old Kentucky Home" at their regular appearances. Kentuckians present will be called on to acknowledge the compliment by standing while their own anthem is being played.

BAPTISTS ASK BIG BUILDING FUND

ATLANTA, Ga., May 16.—The board of trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville today presented to the Southern Baptist Convention a petition to provide a building fund of $2,000,000 which should become available next year. The convention today declined to authorize the appointment of a special peace committee to prepare a paper for presentation to the convention next year setting forth the Christian teaching in regard to the war.

PARIS, May 14.—Fashionable Paris is down on its knees before the gold fish. The gold fish, worked in very large beads, has been decreed the smartest decoration of the day. The brightest-hued fish is embroidered on bathing suits and often is seen in chic luncheon clubs to set off the flowers.

Let Contract Soon For Ky.-Va. Highway

WHITESBURG, May 16.—Contracts are to be awarded within the next few days for that section of the Kentucky-Virginia highway between Jenkins and Pound Gap, on the Virginia border. The distance is about three miles and is an expensive piece of work, inasmuch as it extends thru the roughest section of the Cumberland Mountains. The Virginia side of the mountain is having several miles of model thorofare completed to connect with the highway. This will give Eastern Kentucky an important connection east toward Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

SACROSANCT
By Ada Borden Stevens

By well-illumined halls
And arching doors, oft left ajar,
My friends may wander in
And out through galleries, that are
Adorned with tapestries
Fresh from my loom
But in an inner court there is a room
Set preciously with walls of amethyst;
And only you, my dear, of all the world,
May keep its tryst.

These walls hold chests that store
Old memories. With pride
We draw the draperies
Apart; for it was here a bride,
I folded youthful plans
Woven of gold.
Deep in the shadow 'neath the eaves, are old
Caskets of silver day-dreams—how they shine!
And you alone, my dear, may look on them,
For they are mine.

Within this house of thought
One crypt I keep; its altar love,
And faith its candle light,
Its music silence. From above
A golden radiance floods
The soul like prayer.
At the still evening hour I enter there
In reverence and softly turn the key,
And you alone, my dear, of all the world,
May come with me.

CONFINED TO BED

Birmingham Lady Took Cardui for Relief of Change of Life Troubles and Says It Helped Her "So Much."

Birmingham, Ala.—"I first took Cardui for that tired, worn-out feeling that comes from being dreadfully run-down," says Mrs. Catherine E. Smith, of 2106 Stout Street. "Twenty-five years ago, I was suffering from womanly weakness.

I read of Cardui in an almanac, and thought I would try it. I got a bottle and it helped me from the first. After that, during the whole of my married life, I took Cardui when I needed it.

"About four years ago, change of life came on me. . . I grew weaker and weaker, and was confined to my bed, where I lay on my back for days. I was told that only a severe operation could do me any good, and this depressed me very much, for I dreaded such an ordeal.

"I remembered how Cardui had helped me for female trouble in the past and I had read of how it had helped other women during change of life, so one night I told my husband to go to the drug store and get me a bottle. I began taking it at once. From the first dose I could feel myself getting stronger. . . I continued to take Cardui until I was entirely through this very trying period of a woman's life."

COLLEGE BUREAU TO GET STUDENT VOTES FOR CAL

Says "Thinking Voters" Would Repeat President

ENDORSE IDEALS

Amherst, Harvard and Other Schools Backed by Government Officials in Their Organization

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, May —The high intellectual plane on which President Coolidge's campaign for re-election is to be based is indicated by the creation, inside the Republican National Committee, of a special "College Bureau."

This bureau has been charged with the job of lining up the younger generation of "thinking voters" in support of a president who may be expected to uphold the "best ideals of collegiate life and the historic traditions of our country."

All previous attempts to organize college students politically will e overshadowed by the campaign to be waged this year to swing them en masse behind Coolidge.

"While organizations of a similar character," says a statement by Republican headquarters, "have been undertaken from time to time in previous years, it is felt essential that the movement now be placed on a definite and uniform program."

As might be expected, one of the this campaign, was "The Republican Club of Amherst." Similar organizations, however, already have been started in more than 100 colleges, and the list is to be broadened until every educational institution teaching men and women of voting age is covered.

Ohio leads the list so far in number of clubs formed under the Republican College Bureau, with 17. Indiana comes second with 11, Iowa third with 10, and Illinois and Pennsylvania are tied for fourth with nine each.

Among government officials and others sponsoring and aiding this organizing of a Republican intelligensia to sweep Coolidge back into power are Louis A. Coolidge, former assistant secretary of treasury; James M. Beck, solicitor general of the United States; Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy.

As soon as the student body in each of the colleges has been organized, the bureau will reach out to include in its scope the alumni of the various institutions. No college man is to be overlooked in the appeal that this is the time for all good students to come to the aid of their colleague—Coolidge of Amherst!

Incidentally, it may be of interest to note that Boies Penrose II is on the executive committee of the newly formed Harvard Republican Club.

That name brings back memories of the day when the original Penrose, from his throne as chief of the Old Guard, laid down the law as to who was who and what was what in the Republican party. Though a college man himself, Boies the First preferred to run politics through "practical" and mature "men of affairs," not through college campaigns.

Boies Penrose II is not the son of the former G. O. P. leader. Senator Penrose was a bachelor.
